This will help assure the timely processing of your agreement. If you intend to continue using state-owned aquatic lands, please remember that like any property manager, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), continually updates its policies as new information becomes available. As the steward of Washington's state-owned aquatic lands, we regularly research and identify practices to better protect the aquatic environment. I encourage you to acquaint yourself with our management and stewardship of state-owned aquatic lands by visiting our website at www.dnr.wa.gov.
